Snorre Sturlusøn.

[Text from the Snorre Sturlusøn manuscript, a medieval Icelandic saga, describing events such as the siege of Jerusalem and the travels of the knight Sigurd Urnes.]

The text is a historical account, rich in detail and vivid imagery, characteristic of the medieval period. It provides insights into the political, military, and cultural aspects of the time, offering a glimpse into the society and events that shaped the Middle Ages.