Yet it is certain that God without fortune or misfortune is for all flesh. And as for the motion of the sun, it begins at the east and passes on to the west as the earth moves towards the west.

As for God, He is above all things and in Himself is without the sun, the moon, or any creature, and He is so great that no creature can be compared to Him. And as for the sun, it begins at the east and passes on to the west as the earth moves towards the west.

And as for the sun, it begins at the east and passes on to the west as the earth moves towards the west. And as for the sun, it begins at the east and passes on to the west as the earth moves towards the west.
